Superintendent's Message

Happy New Year!

(from wishesquotes.com)

"Many people await New Year's Day to make a new start to their old habits. I wish you otherwise."

"May each and every day of yours be renewed with lots of happiness and love."

"With a passing year, shall pass the pains and troubles of the past. Stop thinking about the times that are gone, instead waste your time worrying about the future."

"Each year is a gift that holds hold of new adventures. May your New Year be filled with exploration, discovery and growth."

"May what you see in the mirror delight you, and what other see in you delight them. May someone love you enough to forgive your faults, be blind to your blemishes, and tell the world about your virtues."

"Don't forget the past; learn from it. Happy New Year!"

Chores serve as learning moments for toddlers and preschoolers

Safford (January, 2019) – As 2019 begins, millions of Americans set goals for themselves on things they would like to do or improve this year. For parents and caregivers of toddlers and preschoolers, this New Year's tradition offers a wonderful opportunity to expand children's learning through the introduction of everyday chores.

For young children, homes that have a stable daily routine helps reduce anxiety in their lives. According to the American Academy of Pediatrics, children need to have some obligations and duties within the family so that they can learn to accept responsibility. And the habit of pitching in around the house can begin as early as age 2 with something as simple as asking the child to pick up his toys after playtime. But that doesn't mean that a young child should be assigned too many responsibilities.

Always talk to your child about the chore and why you are asking her to do this. Be specific with your instructions. Rather than saying, "clean your room," say, "pick up your clothes on the floor and put them in the laundry hamper." Or "put all your books back on the book shelf." Modeling the behavior will help them understand what you expect.

Parents and caregivers of young children can support the development of social-emotional skills, also known as executive function skills that are reinforced through chores. Executive function skills include self-control, using memory to make connections between ideas and the ability to think creatively. These and other social and behavioral skills — such as motivation, self-discipline, focus and self-esteem — begin to take root from birth to age 5.

These type of skills help children do well when they enter school and beyond. Understanding different points of view, self-regulating emotions and being able to organize, plan and prioritize tasks are other examples of executive function that play a role in helping children work well with others and make friends.

Here are some examples of simple chores to consider for your toddler or preschooler. Just remember that you'll have to guide them through the chore a few times and always supervise as they do their chore:

- Put the toys in a bin.
- Sort laundry by color.
- Play follow the leader.
- Help unload the dishwasher.
- Feed the pet.
- Help set the table. They can put down a napkin or put the fork on top of the napkin.

By turning everyday moments into learning moments, we can build skills such as responsibility in our young kids that will help them succeed in kindergarten and beyond.

About First Things First – First Things First is a voter-created, statewide organization that funds early education and health programs to help kids be successful once they enter kindergarten. Children and Youth with Special Health Care Needs

Our Graham County residents are very important to us. Families who have members with disabilities or other special health care needs can face many daily challenges. Living in a rural area can make those challenges even more difficult. Good health promotes growth and participation in education, social interaction, recreation and community life, as well as employment, volunteerism and post-secondary education. Our goal is to improve the long-term health and well-being of children and youth with special health care needs. We hope to make things just a little bit easier with the following list of resources.

Children with special health care needs means children with ongoing conditions or disabilities, who need or use health care, therapies, behavioral health, counseling, special education or other services, that most children don't use. Some examples of conditions include Allergies, Asthma, Autism, Diabetes, Hearing or Vision Impairment, Paraplegia, Cancer, Attention Deficit Disorder, Speech Impairment, Eating Disorders, Cerebral Palsy, Fragile X Syndrome, Epilepsy, Anxiety Disorder, and many more. These and any other ongoing conditions or disabilities are a special health care need.

Cultural Legacies

Maybe the world is not so small after all — even in an age of mass culture. In Spain, drumming parties called tamboradas continue around the clock for days. Across Georgia, athletes perform chidaoba — wrestling accompanied by music. And in Kazakhstan, horse farmers celebrate the new breeding season with songs, dances and games. The cultural agency of the United Nations recently added these traditions, and more, to its List of the Intangible Cultural Heritage of Humanity. The idea is to recognize and preserve unique rituals that have been passed down through generations. Unesco acknowledges music and dance, hunting practices and traditional crafts, knowledge about nature and the universe — in short, the things that tell us who we are. Traditions in danger of vanishing are given a special designation. This year those included Egyptian hand puppetry and Syrian shadow play. You can browse hundreds of examples, many with videos, at Unesco's website.

From the Graham County Sheriff's Office....Text a Tip

"The Text a Tip" program allows a citizen to anonymously submit a crime tip to law enforcement in Graham County. This service was started as a combined effort between the Graham County Substance Abuse Coalition and local law enforcement agencies. It is administered by the Graham County Sheriff's Office Communications Division.

How it works:

- ◆ A citizen can text GRAHAMTIP to 79516 and type the message they want to submit.
- ◆ The message is then sent to the Graham County Sheriff's Office Communications Center.
- ◆ The message is sent anonymously so the dispatcher has no way of knowing who sent it.
- ◆ There is no caller ID on your message.
- ◆ The dispatcher will review the tip information and pass it along to the appropriate agency.
- ◆ It can be used to report drugs, gangs, violence, threats, bullying, vandalism, abuse, illegal dumping, etc.

We still encourage those needing to report in-progress emergencies to call 9-1-1.

Further information about the program can be obtained by contacting Sgt. Scott Howell at 928-792-5404 or showell@graham.az.gov.

Governor's Office of Youth, Faith and Family

"Healthy Families, Healthy Youth"

In 2016, Governor Ducey's Office of Youth, Faith and Family started a pilot program to help families avoid with the realities of addiction and the devastating effects on our children. The "Keep Them Safe" program brings 7th graders and their parents together for an evening of education and planning for strategies to face the stressors, risks and pressures presented to our kids on a daily basis. The program started with one school in each county. This year, it has expanded to include 53 districts throughout the state. Based on the early success of the pilot, we believe the program will continue to expand.

Information is available for all families in Arizona, whether they are in the county programs or not.

Please visit KeepthemSafe.az.gov to learn more about strategies to keep communication open and to take advantage of "teachable moments" regarding drug abuse and addiction.
